REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Election, Tuesday, Nov. 7th.
CONGRESSIONAL TICKET.

For Congress—First District—
CHARLES G. WILLIAMS, of Rock.

SENATORIAL TICKET.

For State Senator—47th District—S. L. LORID, of Fulton.

There wasn't much of a 14-14 business about the Maine election.

The Kansas fusionists will not receive much encouragement from the Pine Tree State.

Another feather has been added to the cap of James G. Blaine, which some of the presidential aspirants for 1884 may not like to see.

There has been nothing definitely settled at the meetings of the Republican factions in Pennsylvania. There may be some delay, but a compromise will eventually be made.

The Republicans of the Third Congressional district will meet in convention at Monroe to-morrow. It looks now as if there would be a bitter contest between Keyes and Hazelton for the nomination.
Hazelton has 20 delegates sure, and so has Keyes, and each candidate will have a contesting delegation from the western district of Lafayette county.

Ex-President Hayes will make money this year by farming. It will be remembered that in 1879 his Dakota farm netted him $2,75. This year he will do better.
He has already threshed 275 acres of oats and 250 acres of wheat both yielding heavily. The trouble in 1879 was that he could not run a farm and the government too, but now he is only a granger and is making agriculture boom.

We find the following piece of cheering news in the Republican-Sentinel: "The many friends of W. B. Strong, Esq., president of the Atchinson, Topeka & Santa railroad, in this state, where he formerly resided, will be glad to hear that he is improving in health. The tumor behind his eye, which has been removed, was not malignant, as at first reported, and the sight of the eye will be completely restored."

It takes a Milwaukee man to cap the climax as a suicide. Berthold Goetz was 62 years old and was worth from' $60,000 to $65,000. Two years ago he lost the trifling sum of $200 in a business transaction. Since that time he had been constantly brooding over the matter, and to end his trouble he hanged himself from a gas fixture in a room in one of his blocks. He was a miserly man, and $200 was more to him than life.

There will be no Greenbackers in Congress from Maine after this year. All four of the Republican candidates were elected, a net gain of one. Under the old apportionment the State had five members, and during the past four years two of them have been Greenbackers.
Both of these men were defeated on Monday, but allowing the one lost by the apportionment of last winter, it will make a Republican gain of only one.

The busybodies in Janesville who are trying to kick up a political fuss between this city and Beloit, are not building for the success of their own candidate for Congress, very much. And then, to make the chum that Dr. Lord was nominated for the alleged reason that he would support the claim of this man and that, for United States Senator, is an outrage on common honesty and a gross insult to the intelligence of the Republicans of Rock county.

The campaign in the First Congressional district will not fairly open till the Democrats hold their convention on the 27th instant and place a candidate in the field. Then we may expect lively times and an interesting triangular fight. Mr.
Williams is too much engrossed in attending to his private business to answer any questions regarding his temperance principles, but when the time comes, and that will be about the first of October, he will begin a series of speeches that will interest his prohibition friends. He can stand with a firm footing on his record in respect to this question, and will meet every principle involved in the issue. It has been a long time since the First district has had a hand-to-hand fight, and this fall promises one which will make the contest both warm and interesting.

We will not know how the political cat will jump over in the Third Congressional district until the convention meets.
Mr. John Luehsenger, of Monroe, was in Milwaukee on Tuesday, and to the Republican-Sentinel gave a somewhat different report of the attitude of the delegates to the Republican Convention from that county than has been contained in the reports received by way of Madison. The latter have represented Green county as solid for Keyes. Mr. Luehsenger represents it as solid against Hazelton, but the delegates are not for Keyes first. They are for Keyes against Hazelton, but for a new man in preference to either, and will endeavor to secure the nomination of a candidate from Green county. Eating in this, they may support a new man from one of the other counties rather than support either Hazelton or Keyes.

The Howe Scales have all the latest improvements. It is time economy to buy the best. Borden, Selleck & Co.,

TRAIN ROBBERS FOILED

Bold Attempt to Plunder a Missouri Pacific Express Train.

The Conductor Shot and One of the Robbers Killed—Details of the Plot.

Sir Louis, Sept. 12.—A dispatch from Sir Louis, Sept. 12.—A dispatch from Vitória, Brazil, gives some particulars of an attempt to rob the Missouri Pacific train. It appears that the Adams express agent was informed yesterday that an attempt would be made to rob the express train due to Vitória at 10:30 last night. The plan was for two of the robbers to board the train at Vitória, quietly capture the conductor and side-track the train four miles north of Vitória, where the others of the gang would meet them, rob the express, mail and passenger, and then ride away on horses provided for the purpose. The express agent telephoned to the police at Belo Horizonte, and the police, in turn, telephoned to Belo Horizonte to ascertain by the weight and beauty of the plot, and it would be difficult to do justice to the novel plot produced by a boat decorated not with ribbons and bunting, but with bows and garlands of natural flowers and garlands with colored lights.

Autumn, the many yachting parties that have been given to the season, the most brilliantial and notable was that of Mr. L. C. Ayer, the son of Mr. Ayer, who made a handsome fortune by the invention and sale of patent medicines, and whose sister was so personally wised, though not won, by Prince Philippe de Bouillon. Mr. Ayer's yacht, the "Belle," was built at Belo Horizonte and attended by the weight and beauty of the plot, and it would be difficult to do justice to
the novel plot produced by a boat decorated
not with ribbons and bunting, but with bows
and garlands of natural flowers and garlands
with colored lights.

Excitement at East St. Louis Growing Out of the Color Line Being Drawn in the Schools.

Sir Louis, Sept. 13.—Great excitement exists in East St. Louis on the question of whether colored children shall be sent to the public schools where white children are taught. The trouble has been culminating for some time.
During vacation the school board selected a site for a school building for colored children, located between the railroad tracks. The colored people objected to this location, and threatened to send their children to school with the whites. Yesterday the trustees of the school board, which is composed of colored people, met again on hand, and resolved that the colored action was repeated, some teachers left their schools and finally the schools were again closed for the remainder of the day. Last night several street lights occurred, and to-day the schools were again opened. A few white parents presented themselves, but the colored people did not come again on hand, and yesterday's action was repeated. Some

FOREMAN DICKSON.

The Star Route Jury Foreman Interviewed.

He Defends His Action, and Makes Some Sensational Statements.

The Jury Subjected to Threats, Abuse and Espionage.

Mr. Merrick Advised to Purify the Department of Justice.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 12.—Foreman Dickson's attention having been called to a published interview with Mr. Merrick, in which he made remarks reflecting upon his integrity, Dickson replied: "Well, it may suit said Merrick to fret and fume, and say unkind and unjust things about men who were sworn to perform a duty, and performed that trust in a fearless and conscientious manner, according to the honest conviction of the law and evidence, but he will turn his attention to the department of justice, of which he is now an officer, and purify the atmosphere of that institution, and aid in exposing the attempted bribery charges and corrupt practices of his subordinates, he will do the government good service. No one has a higher appreciation of Mr. Merrick than I have, and I have ever prized his friendship, and doubt if he is aware of the damnable transactions which have occurred since the commencement of the star-route cases."

"A system of espionage was established by the department of justice, and in that employ were a number of discreditable persons, prominent among them a man and a woman, who were a member of discreditable persons, prominent among them a man and a woman, for robbery, and self-confessed participants in three-and-one-half cases, lately punished in our court by the conviction of men against whom this party turned state's evidence. The jurors were followed and decoyed of various kinds adopted to ensure them into the commission of a wrong act. Efforts were frequently made to draw them into conversation upon the merits of the case. I have received a number of anonymous letters, and marked papers were daily sent to me, all containing matter intended to influence my mind. When the regular panel was exhausted, extra jurors were summoned, and two gentlemen, Messrs. Murray and Fobert, were selected to be replaced on the jury. The former were exonerated, and it was openly charged and published that they were paid agents of the defendants. Judge Murray, a full-blooded Indian, had a full explanation, and on being informed of the charge, he stated he was innocent of the shadowed charges, and I insisted that Judge Wythe's attention should be called to the matter, and I did so. You know, however, the judge severely criticized the remarks pursued by the newspapers, and defended the jury from the imputations cast upon them.

"Mathews lies were circulated and published about the jury, being seen running with defalcation and drinking at their expense, all of which were denied, and the story was characterless, were resorted to, to sustain attempts made to terrorize the jury by threatening them. Some of them were charged with drunkenness. One of them, Holme, informed me early in the proceedings that a lawyer named Fobert had been watching him, and had obtained an order from the department of justice, and had desired him to abstain from watching any notes as I jotted down the subject point of the testimony, and report to him their import. He told Holme he was authorized to do by the attorney general, and that he had no authority, that there was a question whether Judge Freeman or Fobert should be delegated to take care of Holme, and finally it was decided to appoint Fobert. He urged Holme to act with him and add him with information, and said it would assist in his (Fobert's) advancement, and that Holme would be sure to do it. I cautioned Holme, when he told me his purpose, to pay no attention to Fobert any more, when tempted to induce him. Fobert repeated his visit to Holme at intervals, and ransomed his efforts to ingratiate him, until Holme threatened to kick him out of his store. Our efforts were here to bring him to reason. Our employers were solicited to tell who we conversed with, and what our sentiments were on the subject of the trial, and our wives were no safer from interviewers, and over zealous agents.

"My first personal knowledge I had of the presence of a 'jury fixer' was when Henry A. Bowes made a proposal to me to convert the defendant, and promised me $25,000. His conduct was charming, and I unhesitatingly examined to my letters of appointment as special agent of the department of justice.

"I wanted me to meet the attorney general, and said he had been telegraphed for and he was expected in Washington the next day, Thursday, August 24, 1882. That we could meet at Wormley's hotel and discuss the proposed arrangement, and the amount was agreed upon, and the time set for the meeting.

"The price of $25,000 was agreed upon, and the amount was to be paid in two installments, $12,500 on the 24th, and $12,500 on the 25th.

"War on the Lottery Men.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The alleged war on the lottery men still goes on. Another attack was made yesterday, the place being a building on Broadway, where one of the lottery companies had a sort of headquarters. There is a good deal of brouhaha about this war on lotteries.

The pretense that it is in the interest of morals and the dear public is sheer nonsense. The truth is, that it is impossible to run a gang of lottery sharpers fighting another. There are two combinations of these gamblers in New York and they have been trying to drive each other out of the business for several years, using the police to do it. They are still doing it, and say that one gang of low-brow scoundrels has the authority to break up another gang that is running opposite, but in the case of the fight of the lottery sharpers, I have reason to believe that it is true. Quite a number of these sharpers, a few weeks ago, received a summons from the district attorney for the purpose by the district attorney, because he could not trust the regular police, on a lottery headquarters in the Bowery. The district attorney got a great deal of credit for giving such evidence of being in the right, and the public was told me through that the whole thing was put up by one of the combinations against the other, and that it cost the party of the first part $2,000 to hire the detectives and have the work done. I don't much care for the correctness of this story, but considering the crooked way in which it was brought out, I believe it to be true.

He does not care, and I think he is friendly to the prosecution by his contrary rulings. He also said the case came to Brewster as a legacy from his predecessor MacVeagh, and that it had been terribly mismanaged by MacVeagh and James M. McAdoo, and had been very mismanaged by the present administration, and the present administration did not care to run the case until Brady's papers commenced their McCabe and its officers, now under the command of Justice Bowes, and the counsel for the prosecution knew of his action. He said they did not. Before leaving him he said: "I will send word to your address to-morrow and arrange when we can meet and see the attorney general." On the following day, after a short adjournment, the proceedings, at my office, and sharply after a short adjournment, were adjourned with the following written in lead pencil:

"Aug. 24.—Friday, Aug. 25, I called upon Judge Wythe and informed him that a member of the counsel had been made and by whom. We conversed about the matter, and he said he would think over it and resolve upon what course to pursue. After adjournment that day he called me again to advise me to publish the facts, which he had made known to some of the other justices, and he advised me to caution and consult with them privately; that for the present he would not take action. I suggested that I could encourage Bowes, and let the prosecution entitle me to an interest in the case, and he said, "Yes, I will do that." He checked me by saying, "No, you have too much flavor of police business." I said I would report to him any further facts I might glean from day to day, some days ago he had a conversation with him, and told him that other justices had been approached, and he said he would attend to the matter in time. I attempted to tell him the result in the Bowens interview, but he prevented me, saying he did not care to know the facts in detail, or what side of the case they represented. It was apparent a person representing the defense had come to him, and was representing themselves to be in the interest of the prosecution and vice versa, with a view of testing or entrapping a jurymen. He again advised the strictest surveillance and caution, later on Mr. Olcott intimated to me that he had been interviewed for a corrupt purpose, but did not state the facts, and Daugherty reported to me that a man named Shaw had offered him $200 to vote to clear Dorsey. I advised him to report the matter to the internal board, or the attorney of Friday, September 3. I did not know how any of the jury would vote, nor did I in the slightest degree endeavor to control their actions, and I refer to my colleagues to substantiate my statement. I am also glad to note that nothing indicating evasion on the part of W. Dorsey that was supported by indiscreet facts. Explained my position to my colleagues fully and freely, and whenever we discussed the charges in the indictment, or any of the overt acts, I supported my position by facts given to us by the public papers which demanded a conviction of a heretic. My friends preferred to let a portion of the jury to decide the case than to depend upon the wavering minds of an honest jury sworn to decide as to the facts. Excuse me if I differ with the rest of mankind, and allow me to judge of my own responsibility under oath."

Result of the Republican Primaries Held in the State.

Gov. Cornell Developing Unexpected Strength.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The opponents of Gov. Cornell certainly do not find much consolation in the results in the primaries held throughout the state of New York yesterday for the selection of delegates to the Republican state convention to be held on Wednesday of next week in Saratoga.

There are 128 districts in the state, and of these 81 to day held their primaries for the selection of delegates to the state convention. Up to 10 o'clock last night the returns from these districts showed that the result stood as follows: Cornell, 2,000; Folger, 1,000; Samuel Tilden, 1,000; Wm. T. Farley, 1,000; Eliot, 1,000; Staats, 1,000; Johnson, 1,000; Broome, 1,000; Phelps, 47; total, 8,100. There are in the state convention 135 delegates.

In New York City Judge Folger takes the lead. There are still 20 districts to be held, and the second meeting of the entire seventy-two that the entire seventy-nine have been named. These are pledged as follows: Cornell, 1,875; Folger, 47; Wadsworth, 8; total, 73.

THE CROPS.

The Tribune's Review of Prospects.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The Tribune says: The past week has been one of weakness and rapid decline in wheat, corn, oats and provisions, but speculations in cotton and tobacco have been maintained with a small advance in prices. The advices from the west are that a large wheat crop has been almost wholly secured, and that excellent weather has made a remarkable change in the prospects as to corn. In some conservative estimates it is now conceded that the wheat crop is likely to prove more than 500,000,000 bushels, and a few who have not inclined to extravagant ideas believe that it will reach 550,000,000. The improvement in corn has been so great and so general in the states that produce hitherto that it is impossible to make estimates that have much value, and the market is still in a feverish condition. The cotton crop in the south is estimated to be 1,800,000,000 bushels, appear to be based on 550,000,000 bushels, and will be little more than 500,000,000. The tobacco crop is estimated to be 1,000,000,000 bushels, and will be larger than last year, though there is no evidence as yet that it will approach the great crops of 1859 and 1860. The fall in price of wheat was about 1 cent in red wheat, 12 cents in No. 2 mixed corn, and 1 cent in No. 3 oats. Provisional houses weak, and the markets at Chicago were greatly depressed on Saturday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The Tribune says:

The price of cotton declined on Monday evening, and has since been steady at 75 cents per pound, with a slight increase at the south, and a corresponding decrease in the north, and companies have been formed to compete with one another in the market. Among the Chinese no relies are more valuable than the boots that have been worn by a magistrate. If he resigns and leaves the magistracy a crowd accompanies him from his residence to the gates, where his boots are drawn off with great ceremony, to be preserved in the hall of justice.

A white alligator is found in Brazil which travels far and wide on land. Its skull and bones have been frequently seen in the forest, and the Indians say that its eggs are deposited in the woods. The flesh resembles veal in appearance, but has a fishy taste. The natives roast this animal alive. They say that to kill before cooking would spoil the meat.

An ancient and remarkable clock has been recently set up in the reading-room in the municipal library of Rouen. A single winding keeps it running for fourteen months and some odd days. It was constructed in 1782, underwent alterations in 1826, was bought by Rouen for 1,000 francs in 1838, and has recently been repaired and set going.

The young of all birds which breed upon the ground, says a recent writer, are provided with a garment in such perfect harmony with surrounding effects of light as to conceal themselves by remaining perfectly motionless, without hiding under cover. This maneuver is very easy. It depends, however, wholly for its success upon absolute stillness, as the slightest motion at once attracts the eye of any enemy. It must not stir, though the chrysalis should seem about to trample on it. Such is the terrible requirement of nature, and by the child of nature implicitly obeyed. What nerve and strength of will are here exhibited.

DIRECTOR BURCHARD, of the United States mint, estimates the world's productions of gold for the calendar year of 1880 at $107,000,000, and of silver $87,500,000. The consumption of the world in ornaments, manufactures and arts is estimated for the same period at $75,000,000 gold and $35,000,000 in silver. The estimated circulation in the principle countries of the world is placed at: Gold, $3,221,000,000; full legal-tender silver, $2,155,000,000; limited tenders, $428,000,000; total specie, $6,757,000,000; paper $3,644,000,000; making the total circulation, including the amount held in Government securities and banks and in active circulation, $9,403,000,000. As there are about 1,500,000,000 of people in the world it follows that if the cash in coin and paper was equally divided every man, woman and child would have nearly $7.00. So when you haven't that much money in your purse you have less than your share, and when you have a gold eagle you have $3.00 more than your share. It is a great mistake to suppose that the world owes any one a living. That can be only got by hard toil of brain or hands.

The enormous rise in the value of Highland property during the last twenty years is shown by these facts: In 1859 the estate of Torridon, in Ross-shire—a wild and mountainous territory on the west coast of that country—was bought by Col. McBarnet for £12,000. Thirty years later the present Mr. Darrach, of Torridon, purchased it for £65,000—an increase of more than 500 per cent. The Muirton estate was sold early in the century for £12,000 to Mr. W. Mackenzie, by whose son it was sold for £20,000. The then purchaser resold it a few years back to Mr. Stirling for £40,000.

Out of 157,588,521, the number of cattle estimated to be in the world, 35,971,991, including all kinds, were in this country at the taking of the last census. Out of 382,763,015 sheep we had 51,138,903 head. Out of 81,930,230 pigs we had 43,688,771, which would place the United States as the foremost hog country in the world, with more than one-half of the grand total.
